Spring and Summer Clothing

that is coming in daily. It is cheaper than ever, and a man who cannot afford to dress well when clothing is as cheap as it is, now being sold by us, is no man, and when we tell you that you can buy a fine suit of clothes for $3.00 we mean it, and it is a bargain. When we tell you of the largest lot of Clothing and Shoes we bought at a forced bankrupt sale at 50 cents on the dollar, they are all genuine bargains, for we are selling them cheaper than other merchants can buy them. We invite you to call and examine our immense stock of Clothing, Shoes, Hats and Furnishing Goods, and believe you can save money by doing so. Below we give you an idea of our low prices:

THE GRASS DANCE.

One of the Sdrviving Festivities of the North American Indian. Every race, civilized and savage, must have Its play. When llavid danced be fore the nrk, it was in the performance of a religious rather than a social cere-meny, and this is true of many of the dances of the ancient races, and essentially true in the main of the dancing of Indian tribes. Many of these dances partaking of the nature of the sarage race were harharous and cruel. Many Innocent dances, however, are still enough. joyed. The majority of these are plain-ly religious cercunonics, and with a race so filled with mysticism und roverence for the aupernatural as the Indians to mere pastines, even fetichism bears a

Today your correspondent witnessed at the Crow Agency a hop or grass dance, the most picturesque and wildest scone that could be painted or imagined. The savage finds acthing useful or asthetic in the habilimeats of civilization, and even blankets and leggings mere to his fancy are discarded in tha we mest important occupations of life war and dance. The enly garment his sense of modesty or comfert requires is the cleut, you it must be said his sesthetic sense is instinctively bigher or more cultivated than that of his white brother. The painted and beaded and foathered savage is a far more picturesque and pleasing sight than the dude and his adornments, and his adorament la loss incongrueun to the artistic eye than the civilized gentleman's even-ing dress, and, 1 mlght add, not much nore without the bounda of modesi delicacy than the evening dress of the

As among all snelent nations, the sexes mingle in very few of the dances.

There are squaw dances and buck dances, but promiscuous dancing seems undiscovered or under the ban. The grass dance is a buck dance; the squawa arrange the area and centribute the grace and inspiration of their presence, ut bear no part in the dance. The costume of the dance is striking. A creat of gaudy-polored briatles surmeunts his own rosched and braided iong jot-black insir. At his waist is bound a feathered garment which covers half the back and traila on the ground. As he dances arms and legs are encircled by girdles of shining metal or rich-hued furs, and horns and rosettes of many arribus varieties of coraments. The eestume of the dance is striking was the comment of a tenderfoot when he saw the first full-dross dance. A neighbor suggested that they were act silk tights, but only huckskin, a "met" I tbink worth preserving.

"Oh, area't those pretty silk tights?"

The instrument which furnishes music for the dance is a buge drum, made usually by attretching a skin over a section of the latest and Crustacean.

usually by atrotching a skin over a section of the hollow bowl of a cottonwood tree. Around this are seated ton or a dezen drummers, each previded with one stick, with which he pounds vigereusly and in excelent time. The arena is a circle of smooth grass one hundred feet wide surrounded hy an awaing for the protection from the sun of the dancers and apoctators.

It is a spectacle more savagely grand and strikingly picturesque and stirring than can be found elsewhere to see one aundred painted and feathered aavages at the sound of the "tom-tom" spring from their seats, each chanting a walrd song in the minor key and a step peculiar and inimitable, in absolutely perfect accord with the music, enact the various figures of the dance, the aham battie, the stealthy advance, the fierce charge, the killing, the scalping, the retreat, the figurea and inusic growing mere wild and grotesque as the dance progressas.—liulons (Ment.)Cor. MATERIAL PROGRESS.

ia Its Davelopment Electricity Will 2la the Principal Force.

Its material effects will, we suppose he productive feroe of the race can hardly be other than beneficial, and if erce, it will be disused. Civilization is lependent, first of all, on the possibility that a man may produce something more than he and his family want to eat, and any power, not even in itself, which can increase that aurplus without increasing toil, must tend to premete material civilization. The less the force wasted in compari-
